P-Noy bullish on economy

Credit upgrade to boost investments

By Norman Bordabes and Rensel V. Domingo

PRESIDENT Aquino and his economic managers yesterday voiced optimism that the upgrade of the Philippines' credit rating to just a notch below investment grade would boost the country's economic prospects and attract more foreign investments.

The Aquino administration is confident the Philippines will soon get an investment grade rating that will further lower the country's borrowing costs, free more funds for government spending and widen the economy's base of potential investors.

"We can now clearly make our case for an investment grade status," Finance Secretary Cesar Purisima said in a press conference.

Gunmen forced Dutch to kneel and shot him

By TJ Borgeas

WARNING: JJ Lala, Greenpeace was warned. He received his hands when he was the man with his hands up.

They forced him to kneel and shot him in the back before searching the bag of money he was holding.

The killing led on a Manila motorcycle street by a man in a raincoat. They were riding by a red Mitsubishi van.

Colleagues of Greenpeace yesterday cited witnesses' accounts and video footage as pointing to credible signs that the Dutch and his wife were "executed" for his political advocacy and in raising doubts to police claims of some military rank homicide.

Greenpeace, 67 executive director of the non-governmental group, Ray Ryan-Lara, said.

By Norman Bordabes, Michael Lim-Uban and Christian K. Eguerra

PROBABLY Aquino yesterday laid a powerhouse bet in the words that could give Vice President Jejomar Binay's alliance a great competition in the midterm elections next year.

Mr. Aquino said negotiations were under way between the ruling Liberal Party (LP) and the Nacionalista Party (NP) and the Nacionalista People's Coalition (NPC) to form a 12-member coalition.

Queen Sofia ends visit; Baler hurting

By Michael Lim-Uban

QUEEN Sofia of Spain, who wraps up today her five-day visit, may have inadvertently glossed over the role of the Siege of Baler in the restoration of bilateral relations between Manila and Madrid.

Unbeknownst to the queen, the warm and enthusiastic welcome accorded to her by the country since her arrival on Monday stemmed from a singular act passed by Congress in 2005—the Filipino-Spanish Friendship Act authored by Sen. Eduardo J. Angara.

Not that her speech at Baler's state dinner and her monetary paid homage to the singular event that is officially celebrated in Spain for exemplifying the universal traits of noble magnanimity and dignity.

REMEMBERING PEFTOK

Heroism of Korean War vets cited

By Jerry E. Espinosa

PEFTOK should not forget the bravery and heroism of the 7,000-strong Philippine Expeditionary Force in Korea (PEFK) during the Korean war in the early 1950s, the Department of Foreign Affairs (DFA) said yesterday.

Giving a report of the Philippine Embassy in Seoul, the DFA pointed out the PEFK was one of the first nations to lend the United Nations' call to defend South Korea from a communist invasion, an open warlike which ended on June 25, 1950.

The move reinforced the friendship between Manila and Seoul.

The DFA recalled then President Elpidio B. Quirino's words as he sent the PEFK contingent to war: "That you will do well prove to all the world that this republic and all of you who are part of it have the will and power to surmount and to make not only peace as we want there to be, and to keep those that war."

The PEFK, which arrived in the Korean peninsula sometime in August 1950, was the fourth largest force among the 15-nation coalition under the UN command in defending South Korea against the communist Democratic People's Republic of Korea (North Korea).

Between 1950 and 1953, the PEFK soldiers (belonging to the Army's 2nd, 30th, 14th, 19th and 30th divisions) endured some 100 days along the DMZ against the Chinese, Chinese and North Korean soldiers.

The PEFK, including then 1st Lt. Pablo S. Ramon, who later became the Philippines' 30th President, took part in the battles of Volcano, Bridge and Hill, and, among others, where more than 30 of the PEFK soldiers were killed, 25 others were declared missing in action and at least 138 were wounded.

Wreck-laying

The PEFK also repaired the home office that on June 22, Philippine Ambassador to South Korea, Lito Lito joined 11 surviving PEFK members and their close relatives in a wreath laying ceremony at Philippine Veterans' Museum in Gwangju, located south of Seoul.

The ceremony was organized by the Presbyterian Church under the South Korean government's Korean War Program for War Veterans in coordination with the voluntary Gwangju City officials and the South Korean Army," said the museum.

On March 20, President Aquino inaugurated the PEFK War Museum and on 12 August 1991, Ramon, which Malabon and visited to "commemorate our heroic gallantry and serve as a living symbol of the enduring friendship between the Philippines and South Korea."

Growing relations

On Aug. 4, 2008, then President Joseph E. Estrada issued Proclamation No. 555 declaring Sept. 7 as "Korean War Veterans of the Philippines Memorial Day."

In November last year, South Korea President Lee Myung-bak took a three-day state visit to the country, where he discussed with Mr. Aquino "ways to further enhance the rapidly growing relations between the two countries."

According to the foreign office, Lee's visit "marked an important point in the 62-year history of Philippine-South Korean bilateral relations," which were formally established on March 1, 1949.

DepEd: Hold your horses on Sept. school opening

By Tara Quiroz

MANILA (The school opening to September would need a thorough study and coordination with education stakeholders and disaster management agencies, the Department of Education (DepEd) said today.

DepEd Communications Director Tina Sison made the statement following a request only to start the school opening to September from June to avoid the onset of the rainy season.

Sison, however, cited a survey that said more people favored starting the opening of the school year in June, the traditional start of classes in the country.

"A survey conducted among parents, students and teachers in June showed that the majority still preferred a June opening," Sison said but became unclear.

"But we are not leaning on the proposal to start it in September. This would need further study and consultation as we need to take into consideration a lot of factors in making climate change," she said.

A potential proposal that never got approval, said to move the class opening to September dropped up again following severe flooding in many parts of Metro Manila and other parts of Luzon that caused the suspension of classes earlier this week.

But a strong storm and typhoon also hit the country in September, like "Noiding" which flooded Metro Manila in 2009 and "Bundok," which devastated Cagayan de Oro and Negros in 2011.

In the 2011s, the school opening was moved to September in a three-year process but this was quickly returned to June in the fourth year after students complained that they could not concentrate on their school work due to the hot sun.

Ebdane charged with graft

By TJ Burgonia

A MENING company has filed graft charges against Zambales Gov. Hermenegildo Ebdane Jr. and other provincial officials at the Oroquieta man for allowing small-scale miners to take over its mines in the province and hand off its stockpile of minerals.

Benito Ebdane, president of the Consolidated Mines Inc. (CMI), accused Ebdane and other Zambales officials of granting permits to small-scale miners to take over the company's mines in 2011 and transport chrome ores, or between from 50 years of chrome mining to the local market.

Officials of CMI have been protesting the so-called selling of the firm's chrome "ores." They said the small-scale mining permits were used to convert mining from small-scale to large-scale and the handing of minerals from the firm's stockpile from October 2011 until May 30 year brought losses to CMI worth at least P111 million.

CMI is a company engaged in the mining, milling and trade of gold, silver, copper and other minerals.

It said it is the mineral rights holder of the area covered by the Oroquieta Project in San Carlos, Zambales, owned by CMI. CMI said Ebdane has a mine and operations during 2011 and 2012, but the mine and operations for the Oroquieta Project in San Carlos, Zambales, owned by CMI.

Optimism for peace up as military secures MILF

COMBING CITY — who could be the biggest push for peace talks with Moro rebels in the south, the military is taking the lead role in securing an assembly of Moro rebel leaders, followers and their families to an assembly early this year. A rebel leader said could be secured by up to 500,000 people.

The three-day "Bangsamoro Leaders Assembly" according to MILF political affairs officer Chabud, intend to proceed in showing the existence of these people on the ongoing peace talks between MILF and government.

The assembly must take place in Sultan Kudarat, Maguindanao, and including Moro leaders who a peace agreement would come from.

"I can feel it. The situation is so strong that before the scheduled elections next year, a final peace pact shall have been signed," said Tomas Matias, mayor of Sultan Kudarat which is leading the assembly.

Hog growers raise hopes on deal with Customs

MANILA CITY—Leaders of the country's hog industry have asked Customs Commissioner Rolly Bustin to make good on his promise to help bring about smuggling by providing the Department of Agriculture (DOA) documents that would verify contents and origin of container loads entering Philippine ports.

Rosemaria Joy, director of the Income Development Council, said Bustin had promised to give them copies of the so-called "bongos" issued (DOA) during their meetings on June 13 and 28.

In a statement, he was also quoted as saying his group was hopeful that such mechanisms agreed upon by his group and Customs officials in a recent meeting would finally curb smuggling.

But an international matter that has the customs and revenue of all countries being brought into the country as well as the countries of origin.

Crucial documents

"It was agreed during the last meeting that SOC (Office of Customs) would provide DOA with IMF in a week's time, but that the revenue parts of the IMF would be returned, it is already 10 days past the last meeting but when not checked with the DOA guarantee office, there are no IMF's sent in (here) yet," said Soc, also chair of the pigty fed group Bustin.

"These documents are crucial in determining shipments of smuggled meat and other food items. On goods these IMF's to check if the origin and value of inspection before the revenue operation could be done (DOA) issued by (DOA)," he said.

So said the IMF ensure the security of origin of imported and exported goods to be crucial in identifying smuggled shipments.

It was DOA that asked the Department of Finance (DOF) to copy IMF in April.

Junk shop lot yields 300 World War II bombs

By Patricia Magallon
Bureau Staff

MANILA CITY—More than 300 bombs believed to be from World War II were dug up from a lot behind a junk shop in Marikina City, a town south of Manila.

Rep. Ramon Magsaysay, chief of the Marikina police, said the bombs were found by a junk shop owner who said that their identity was not known to him. He said the bombs were found by a junk shop owner who said that their identity was not known to him.

Magsaysay, however, said only 15 of the bombs were intact while the rest were broken and damaged.

He said they belonged to the company in Marikina City, Marikina City.

Police set up a security net area around the site where the bombs were found and more police were sent in to guard it.

Magsaysay said police in Marikina sought help from the regional police and military to dispose of the bombs.

The 15. G2C Command, police, spokesman of the Military Command (MCC), said the command could not take custody of the bombs because it didn't have a facility to store them.

"We advised them to find a site, place which will serve as temporary storage area for the bombs," he said.

Magsaysay said the bombs could be transferred to Marikina because the military headquarters is located in an industrial area where they could not be safe to store them.

He said that while many of the bombs are disintegrating, there are still dangers.

Lack of witness, CCTVs hurts search for lawyer

By JUNGGA

MANILA CITY—The search for a British-born lawyer, who was indicted on June 25, has been difficult because of the lack of witnesses and CCTVs that were not working.

Security officers of the British Embassy in Manila said they have no record of the lawyer's presence at the embassy on June 25, according to British agent, John Lancelotti, director of the Criminal Investigation and Detection Group (CID) in Manila.

"We haven't received a break-through (in the search) but we are coordinating with the family to see if a convincing lawyer," Lancelotti said when asked for updates on efforts to find lawyer, John Lancelotti.

to find a temporary solution to their dispute over Pinatubo. That's what the Philippine government is trying to do.

But protesters, including the Chinese, are not happy with the Philippine government's actions. They are protesting the government's actions.

Mr. Aquino ordered his Cabinet—the second time in a week since an administration that nearly halts full Cabinet meetings—as a means of expressing his frustration with the country's increasingly aggressive neighbors.

Foreigner statement

The President issued his strongest statement yet since he threatened last week to end government talks with the Chinese.

He said that with the end of the government's statement that have been to have come from Philippine officials, he was sure that there were many things that had been said.

"They should not feel that we have written from their end and they should feel that we have written from their end," he said.

"It has been almost three weeks since our last statement and we have not heard from them," he said.

Asked where he would order government forces back to Pinatubo, he said, "I would order them to go back to Pinatubo."

DPWH probe goes to the bottom of 'vanishing manholes'

Public Works Secretary Rogelio Sison yesterday ordered an immediate investigation into the reported "disappearance" of more than 400 manholes in Metro Manila after they were covered with road asphalt by private contractors working for the government.

They can, after the Mines Manpower Development Authority (MMDA) blamed such accidents for adding to the cause of Black Deaths around the capital.

Mogae said he had directed ESWP Regional Director Roy Mabile Tshepo and senior engineers of the National Capital Region (NCR) to inspect, or at least visit by plane to see if the number and location

"I want there to submit immediately the reports on the inventory of these manholes and check the negligence contractors and project engineers who are responsible for covering these manholes," Suresh said in a statement.

"We have to be able to ensure that we punish those who are found guilty of such violations, whether they did it intentionally or not," Simpson said.

"The contractors who awarded the contracts will be held liable. They will do the cheating and shoulder the work expense at no extra cost to the government," he added.

Singapore said OSHA officials and employers who are accountable for the work of the construction will also be pursued, with companies being the primary beneficiaries.

Singam told marketes, especially those based on highway projects, should be kept free from any obstruction, whether garbage or excess traffic, so as not to impede the flow of traffic.

He said Lofgren's contractors might have realized work on major thoroughfares exactly at a time for the 2012 Inland meeting of Asian Development Bank held in Manila and thus the limited working days on weekends. "So there should not be no reason to put the quality and safety of our roads and drainage systems at risk," he said. ■ (MNL) P. 10

Baldoz to 'tell all' on bus drivers' plight

By Philip C. Taylor

Justice Secretary Nicholas said the government would reveal to the public the "true employment situation" of bus drivers and conductors after their employers challenged in the Supreme Court the new policy mandating that drivers and conductors be paid a fixed wage.

the high court orders it to pay.

"The police will provide us the opportunity to better use public resources and understanding of the true employment situation of drivers, and eventually to be less transport poor and, hopefully, able to generate public support for the reform the DLR is pursuing to provide our members with the rights and benefits provided for 'heavy' and 'standard by law' holders and to a minimum."

"We welcome this development—the more challenge is put forward by industry in the bus transport sector to provide our bus drivers and conductors with better wages, more benefits and protections, safe and healthy conditions to work, and most of all, to provide safety and comfort to our bus-riding public by ensuring that he or she has discipline," she said.

Model 'drug dealer' scores in court anew

A. QUEEN CITY court has denied the re-investigation of the charges against a young Coast mountain and world who was accused of importing opiates into the mountains of the illegal drug "trade" through a courier service early this year.

The court also set aside its injunction on Sept. 11 "without prejudging the resolution of this case." The charges against the defendants stem from cooperation of the Philippine Drug Enforcement Agency (PDEA) in the seizure of more than 340 million worth of drugs and its raw ingredients.

It is facing eight counts for alleged possession of dangerous drugs and essential chemicals.

The court ordered the return of the car after Sir, through counsel Michael Hootnick QC, sought another order, in the hopes of having the charges dismissed. The court had issued a Department of Justice requisition ordering him, for good reason, to be extradited.

Sir, who was arrested on Jan. 30, was later sentenced on October 2 to a Queen's Bench warrant which

The city prosecutor said he recommended that the case be sent for further investigation. The Fifth then elevated the charges in the 2012, after which Justice (then-senator) Francis J. Kavanagh II reversed the city prosecutor's findings.

BSP now mulls over steps to stabilize prices

By Ana G. Reyes and Michael K. Barua

AS THE country's inflation continues to ease, the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas may soon take steps to ensure that the average increase in consumer prices will not be too discouraging for businesses.

According to BSP Governor Ricardo Trillanes Jr., the cen-

The 2007 "sell rule" suggests an action to help ensure the inflation target is not breached when the system is too loose.

In June, the rate of rise in consumer prices eased to an 1.8 percent, from the 2.9 percent reported the previous month, according to the BSP.

Firm unveils blueprint for city's own business district

By Dora C. Quinsac

PROPERTY giant Ayala Land Inc. is unveiling its blueprint for a new large-scale mixed-use urban development in the city's own business district.

The new integrated complex, to be called "The North," will rise on the east side of the city on a 20-hectare property right beside the Manila Bay. The state-owned National Housing Authority transferred the property to the city in a series of development projects. The partnership, which is yet to be incorporated, will be 70 percent controlled by ALI and 30 percent owned by the NHA.

The project, which is set to be the first phase, will bring in new of law, retail and financial companies to the area. The second phase, which is set to be the third phase, will bring in new of law, retail and financial companies to the area.

ALI, which is a public-private partnership, will develop the area into a new business district. The project, which is set to be the first phase, will bring in new of law, retail and financial companies to the area.

Inflation further eased to 2.8% in June

From page B1: Prime price increases in electricity, housing, utilities, food and transport, the National Statistics Office (NSO) said in a report released yesterday.

The NSO said that, with the latest price increases, inflation in the country had averaged at 3 percent. The NSO said that the inflation rate in June was 2.8 percent, down from 3.2 percent in May.

The NSO said that, with the latest price increases, inflation in the country had averaged at 3 percent. The NSO said that the inflation rate in June was 2.8 percent, down from 3.2 percent in May.

The foreign inflation in June was partly brought up by the easing in global prices. The Philippines imports more 60 percent of its oil requirements.

The slowdown in oil prices likewise helped the increase in transportation cost, NSO said.

Policy-makers remain optimistic the country can hit higher growth of 6 to 8 percent this year against the 5.5 percent target in 2012, supported by strong export spending and low inflation that has attracted foreign capital inflows, helping push the price in the country down further in the year.

But the more than a decade and a half of low and stable inflation may further weaken the demand for foreign working and living expenses, officials said.

Still, according to NSO, while global demand is weak, domestic demand in the Philippines remains strong.

NSO said strong domestic demand could counter the impact of declining oil prices in overall economic growth in the Philippines throughout the rest of the year. As a result, average inflation for the year will likely stay within the range of 3 to 5 percent.

NSO also expects the central bank to maintain its policy rate, which is 6.25 percent for overnight borrowing and lending, unchanged. With experts from the NSO, however, saying.

Value of seized counterfeit goods down in May

By Rita T. Chiondo

THE VALUE of seized fake goods dropped slightly year-on-year in May, according to the Intellectual Property Office of the Philippines (IPOPHL).

However, IPOPHL director general Ricardo B. Manafao said yesterday in a briefing that the value of seizures rose compared to the same period last year.

IPOPHL predicts increase toward the end of the year

IPOPHL data showed that the value of seizures dropped 12.5 percent to P2.7 billion in the first five months from P2.4 billion in the same period last year. Manafao said the decline was largely due to the "devaluation" of intellectual property (IP) seizures as the United States kept the Philippines on its piracy watchlist.

Manafao said, however, that the volume and value of seizures tend to increase toward year-end, when consumption is at its peak.

Earlier this year, IPOPHL submitted the Philippine scrapbook status as IP protection to the United States Trade Representative (USTR) as the USTR monitors Special 301 review process on the IP situation worldwide.

In 2011, IPOPHL reported that subholders seized a total of P6.28 billion worth of counterfeit and pirated products or equivalent of popular brands, that is 36.33 percent up from the 24.12 billion.

IPOPHL said that seizing counterfeit goods is just one area in IP enforcement where support for local property can be cultivated.

"We had atmosphere of the achievement but we believe that is valuing support for intellectual property is ultimately important," Manafao said. "Due to having cultural support for IP is more rigorous will counterfeiting and piracy be totally eradicated, thus allowing IP rights owners to enjoy the rewards and benefits of their IP assets and encouraging more creating and innovation among our people," he added.

Manafao attributed the 2011 performance to the concerted efforts of the members of the National Committee of Intellectual Property Rights. Topping the 2011 enforcement operations of the NCIPR were the National Bureau of Investigation, Bureau of Customs and the Official Media Board.

The other NCIPR members involved in enforcement operations are the Philippine National Police, Food and Drug Administration and the National Intellectual Property Commission.

He also acknowledged the efforts of the Philippine Anti-Fake Team or PAFT, of which IPOPHL is a member since September 2011, for its non-official fight against counterfeit piracy. Based on PAFT's enforcement data, Lison Meliton had the highest estimated value of seized items among group leaders. Also notable in value are Rayhan Reyes, Chantal Ingo, Hilgert and Ormigo products.

PAL launches 'Fly-all-you-can' promotion

By Paolo G. Manalang

ASIAN passengers have no one to complain with the launch of a new program from Philippine Airlines (PAL) that gives travelers the chance to get on as many flights as they want.

In a statement, PAL.com was notified by congressional Sen. Miguel Corp. (SMC), announced that it would be selling "Fly All You Can" passes for 11 regional and two domestic destinations to travelers planning trips from July to the second week of December this year.

Travelers buying PAL's "Fly All

You Can" passes from July 1 to 12 can fly as many times as they want to Cebu and Davao, or from Manila to Hong Kong, Macao, Taipei, Singapore, Bangkok, Saigon, Jakarta, Beijing, Shanghai, Hanoi and Canton. Also included is the Singapore-Jakarta route.

Tickets will sell for as low as $118 for economy seats and $128 for business-class seats. "The Fly All You Can pass must be converted into any number of tickets to any of the designated destinations within the monthly periods of the pass. Passengers can visit the same city more than once. Unlimited transfers in Manila are also permitted," PAL said on Thursday.

Tickets must be used within eight weeks from date of first travel, but before Dec. 30, 2012.

Reserving and redeeming tickets is allowed under certain conditions.

The program is being offered during the busy season for air travel that starts from July to the fourth quarter of the year.

Demand for air travel is expected to reach peak levels during the holiday season in December.

Tickets issued under the Fly

All You Can pass do not include government taxes, fees and charges.

Taxes vary according to destination.

The program, the first with limited change for flights worldwide on top of $118 to $128, adds the flight to Cebu in P1,120.

Holders of Fly All You Can passes can also visit themselves of special fares to Australia, Japan and India.

Round-trip fares, both economy and business class, are studied by as much as $400 on flights to Sydney, Melbourne, Tokyo, Singapore, Jakarta, Osaka and New Delhi.

WORKING FOR A GREENER FUTURE

PLDT ALFALFA Enterprise and Green Future Innovations Inc. are working towards an ecologically-stable, energy-secure Philippines.

PUR ALFALFA Enterprise and Green Future Innovations Inc. (GFI) signed a contract together at the Ramon Capias Building in Manila, ensuring Green Future Innovations' operations in Manila would ensure full PLDT connectivity and enterprise-grade solutions. The goal is to turn your Fiber back green.

The Philippines Bamboo Act of 2008 requires all companies to use bamboo in all "light loads for houses and engines used in the Philippines". All gasoline sold in the country had to contain at least 5 percent ethanol by February 2009 to 10 percent by 2011. However, the production of bioethanol is impeded by the demand for the food, and in response Green Future Innovations has stepped up to address this shortfall.

Green Future Innovations is a newly formed venture between Japan's Kishida Corp., JGC Corp., the Philippine Bureau of Energy Investments Corp., and Singapore holding company OGC. It is focused on a sustainable green future for the Philippines, focusing on bioethanol. The larger range activities is to help the Philippines be self-sufficient in food, to generate jobs in the countryside, and to foster sustainable green industries. There will also be increases in domestic renewable energy through a Kamikita fiber ethanol plant in San Marcos, Ibabala that is poised to be fully operational this year.

The project is a government-backed, coordinated closely with farming communities in the area. Ibabala operations are projected to eventually include over 1,000 hectares within the province. With demand for bioethanol rising, it's quite likely that there will be other fiber plants in other provinces.

That expanding area of operations needs fiber interconnectivity with modern communications technology. Green Future Innovations' management needs the most cutting-edge technology to access critical information in a constantly and promptly as possible. And this is why they have turned to

PLDT ALFALFA Enterprise

Green Future Innovations uses enterprise-grade fiber interconnectivity through its nationwide fiber with OGC, dedicated cloud-based Internet line connections for domestic network applications via OGC, as well as the nationwide stable capabilities of the SMART - general cellular network. They can collectively well-equipped to lead the Philippines into a green future providing both energy security and sustainable technology.

Power barge auction draws four groups

By Amy R. Bono

POWER GENERATOR groups are expected to acquire the four direct-fired power barges that will be auctioned off by the Electric Power Sector Reform and Rehabilitation Management Corp. for the second time this year.

In a statement issued yesterday, EPSC said the four power barges, which it had previously acquired, had been sold to the four groups.

EPSC, however, declined to identify the four prospective bidders, saying that the four groups had previously participated in the government's bidding process.

The four firms, which were all present at the pre-bid conference held yesterday, had submitted letters of intent, said EPSC.

SUNTRUST PROPERTIES LAUNCHES THE NEW

City of Love

By Charles F. Baker

VERONA, a city in the northeastern region of Italy, is not only famous for its well-preserved and still functional 1,000-year-old amphitheater, beautiful Renaissance gardens and well-crafted medieval sculpture—it was also the birthplace of the timeless Shakespearean story of Romeo and Juliet.

A type of the city will not be complete without a visit to Juliet's House or Casa di Giulietta. Although this house has distinctly nothing to do with Shakespeare's play, its famed balcony, which was only added in 1926, has become famous among love-struck visitors who regard this area as the place where the popular story first blossoms and later took place.

"The city deserves its reputation as one of the world's most romantic cities. So when I had the chance to visit it a couple of years ago, I thought why not make this city an inspiration to one of our newest projects?" revealed Suntrust Properties Inc., president, Nity Mahalingam.

Set on 60 hectares of rolling terrain in Wang, Canton, the project's founders will launch a world's famous honeymoon spots like Hawaii, Bali, Vienna & Singapore, and bring us to the region "La Città di Amore" (The City of Love). Its village story will showcase a replica of Italy's first Renaissance town in the balcony where messages of love are passed by its visiting lovers. There will also be a replica of Casa di Giulietta, which will serve as the project's main and marketing office as well as Italian-themed outdoor parks, bridge ways, a clock tower, and shop houses. Its amenities include a clubhouse, swimming pool, basketball court, hiking trail and nature parks.

Italy-themed houses

Nity Mahalingam explained that Suntrust Verona's automatic amenities include its romantic challenges. There are now 11 select Italian-inspired houses with its six single-bedroom and duplex-type house designs. Homeowners may choose from Orchidia which means "golden/precious" (147-23 sqm to 176 sqm lot), Catalina which means "pearl" (133-24 sqm to an 170 sqm lot), Watalla which means "beloved" (93-1 sqm to an 88 sqm lot), Amador which means "to love God" (104-54 sqm to 136 sqm lot), Gisella which means "pledge" (176-88 sqm to 173 sqm lot) and Verona which means "blooming" (117-88 sqm to 127 sqm lot).

Verona

Suntrust Verano's community will offer only 2,572 units, allowing people space to relax in their private garden areas.

Best of both worlds

Suntrust Verano promises one of the most attractive price packages in the area. The project offers prime location, prime property that is 60 to 70 percent lower than the cost of those properties located in Taguig, and 40 to 50 percent lower than those located in Sta. Rosa, Laguna.

"Considering the price advantage that we offer, Suntrust Verano's homeowners enjoy the best of both worlds – just 10 minutes drive away from Taguig's E-1 by a business belt and relaxation, health spa, and only 15 minutes drive away from business and leisure establishments in Sta. Rosa, Laguna, which is close to a major industrial and commercial hub," Fajungco explained.

Mr. Fajungco reported that the preparations for the property's groundworks are already underway and in a few months homeowners can expect the following: road network, electric lines, as well as the first 10 houses to be finished.

Since 1987, Suntrust Properties Inc., a subsidiary of Megaworld Corp., has created numerous self-contained residential communities in Cavite and Laguna. These include the 40-hectare township of Governor's Hills and the 40-hectare community of The Green Heights, both located in General Trias, Cavite. Suntrust Properties has also pioneered themed residential communities that include the Suntrust Riviera Hills, The Suntrust Cybergrove and 16-hectare Cyberville in Dasmariñas, Cavite; the 30-hectare Sta. Rosa Heights, Sta. Rosa Hills and The Meadows in the Wang Cawang – Sta. Rosa 2 Agor area; and the 22-hectare beachfront Riviera in Calatagan, Laguna.

Suntrust Properties' residential developments also include condominiums, projects namely Suntrust Palidiran in Cavite, Manila, Adhika Gardens in Manila, Manila, Suntrust Trevelyan Villas in Crowsley Street, Mandaluyong, LGI Gardens at LGI Avenue, Manila, and Suntrust 8 Avenue Park City. In Quezon City, three more projects are underway namely Suntrust Avenue Gardens in Avenue Boulevard, Suntrust Summit by Novotel, and Suntrust Avenue in E. Rodriguez.

The company has also ventured into the leisure industry with Sherwood Hills Golf and Country Club, and its residential units within a golfing community through Elva Hills at Sherwood Hills.

Suntrust is likewise gearing up for its latest undertaking in industrial pre-pet facilities – the Suntrust Commerce District.

Delinger added that while parent company Megaworld Corp. has a constant track record of building self-contained communities under its purviewing, low-work-play-there concept, these are built to attract and retain a major home provider of affordable yet superior quality homes for Filipino families.

"With Suntrust Verano, La Clée de l'Amour, our homes are built not only as an affordable home in prime location, but will also have a chance to live in a unique community, where romance grows in the countryside," said Mr. Fajungco.

2-system body-shaping program: incredible!

"The combination of two of Marie France's most effective slimming technologies easily transformed my body," said Dawn Zalata-Laplante. "It was incredible!" She was talking about the Fat Mobilization System, or FMS, one of the most proven weight-loss treatments, together with Physique, a much sought-after electronic, non-invasive formula. When these two very effective systems are applied together, each enhances the other, achieving better than ever weight-loss and body-shaping results. That's what Marie France did when they created the very successful Weight 'n Shape program.

How does FMS work?

It accelerates the body's natural processes, altering the temperature and structure of stored body fat, which then melts to calorie-burning. Each treatment lasts approximately 30 minutes and is capable of burning up to 2,000 calories—while you're lying down!—and then continues to burn calories even after the treatment ends.

What does Physique do?

It firms and tones sagging bulges. 15 minutes of Physique equals the effect of 225 sit-ups! It uses the most advanced electronic technology to achieve immediate fat lifting slimming results. This treatment can be used on your midsection, thighs, legs, buttocks and any area that requires lifting and improving.

It's not about you

How improper use of social media has made you the star, and why getting out of the spotlight is worth it

By Nino Bonifacio
St. La Salle University (Class 2005)
Contributor

TECHNICAL TECHNOLOGY has gone beyond all known borders, barriers and imagination. It has enabled individuals to connect to the whole world with just a click. The irony is, the quick connection has often resulted in isolation. Social media presence connecting with people, like the likes of Facebook and Twitter, actually promote yourself.

Facebook asks, "What's on your mind?" Twitter gives you the freedom to express your thoughts for the world to know. It's all about you, first thoughts, your opinions, your feelings, your likes and dislikes, your mood, your location.

This lifestyle can define you also thinking that the world revolves around you. And when you start believing that, it can lead to superficial relationships and an indifference toward others, thus isolating yourself within the confines of your computer or smartphone.

Find the superstar

Many young people today live with a mind-set that is focused on themselves, whether they acknowledge it or not. It's easy to give a lot of what it looks like when people get themselves on Facebook, but if you take a look around, you can see it for yourself. There are teenagers that indulge themselves as a sponsor or back sponsors, not what they can get from the other to let them know they can give. We live in a nation where numerous public officials seek to maintain their financial portfolio through the power of serving their constituents. This nation, combined with our social media-driven culture, produces young people bent on following the same pattern of self-interest.

Take, for example, a privileged kid who gets whatever he wants on demand or through a well-schooled mother. Parents who constantly give in to demands are setting up their kids to be entitled individuals who won't give a thought to those who give in their way. On the flip side is an underprivileged kid who wants to change his identity by seeking wealth, power and money. Once they get a taste of the "good life," they can't help but want more and more without the slightest understanding of greater commitment.

Think about it, the nation, now infused with selfish and personal gain, self-interest, is quite prevalent. The aftermath of being narcissistic is all too evident most, not for all of us. But I believe there's a greater power to which it is necessary that we turn to serve and help others. When one shifts the focus away

Sun protects student plans from going overboard with internet charges

At the onset of the new school year, mobile telecommunications innovator Sun Cellular assures to help protect students from going overboard with internet charges through its iPlan with the Anti-Bill Shock charging feature.

"Students now have grown more keen on using their phones for internet surfing. With this, we're happy to extend the Anti-Bill Shock feature to our internet plans to let parents gain more control of their spending on their children's postpaid bills, without actually putting a limit to their usage," says Francisco Analla III, Sun Cellular's Vice President for Product Development and Value-Added Services.

First introduced by Sun in February 2012, the Anti-Bill Shock feature imposes a maximum charge cap on Sun's bucket services. "This was designed to cater to those who do not really intend to go unlimited on their internet usage, but would still not want to be bound with a certain usage allocation," Analla shares.

And now, Sun sets off to take advantage of this special charging scheme to cater to student-held plans and prevent them from incurring expensive charges due to unwanted mobile internet charges.

Parents may now ask to upgrade their children's Sun Prepaid subscriptions to include the iPlan 149 with 20 hours of mobile internet or to the iPlan 399 with 60 hours of mobile browsing. Should their children need to consume more than the monthly allocation, they are ensured to be charged only P110 for 30 minutes in excess of the allocation until the maximum amount of P999 per month for mobile internet services.

"Especially with the challenging and highly-competitive academic landscape these days, the fear of incurring expensive bills should be the least of students and parents' concerns. With this service, they may now eliminate such nuisance and just bill for mobile surfing needs conveniently, with no worries," Analla adds.

Sun Cellular is a member of the PLDT Group.

Highest-paid Hollywood actor

LOS ANGELES—Tom Cruise once won the highest-paid actor in Hollywood on Tuesday, scoring $10 million... but the "Mission: Impossible" star has little to celebrate. Days after his wife Katie's divorce, questions are swirling about his role in his commercial and box-office slump at the start of his five-year marriage to Katie. The latest Forbes list of Hollywood's highest-paid actors put Cruise fifth on the list, with earnings of $17 million (about $10 million in 2011 and $10 million in 2012).

Charlie Sheen after the meltdown

LOS ANGELES—Charlie Sheen had just not done for a year and a half, probably from a police car, started making trouble. That's the way she, one of the top-rated comedians on TV, was going to end up.

She's taking refuge in his brother's house, the one that reflected the very candid, humor-filled interview we had with the comedian's wife.

Charlie came to promote his new hit series, "Anger Management," but he didn't want to do it. He was angry and openly admitted to it, but he didn't want to do it. He was angry and openly admitted to it, but he didn't want to do it.

CHARLIE SHEEN: The actor who has had a meltdown recently

"With a winning smile, he quipped: 'Gosh, I can't become my life a comedian, I'm sorry.'"

That he dropped the word "winning" was the catchphrase in what made his life a joke. He was a comedian, but he was a comedian. He was a comedian, but he was a comedian. He was a comedian, but he was a comedian.

He was a comedian, but he was a comedian. He was a comedian, but he was a comedian. He was a comedian, but he was a comedian. He was a comedian, but he was a comedian.

Charlie and Sheen are selling the show and not knowing what to do next. Charlie said, "I don't need a show to survive because my dad taught me to be a comedian. The good news, you get to be a comedian. The good news, you get to be a comedian. The good news, you get to be a comedian."

He added that he did not know his brother's name. He added that he did not know his brother's name. He added that he did not know his brother's name.
